He had been acting strangely for some time, and it was a surprise that he had committed suicide. The last presentation of the tableau phantasma, for the benefit of St. John's Riverside Hospital, was given on Saturday night at Music Hall before a large audience. At 2 o'clock Mr. Green arose to admit to the house the village expressman, William Mead, who is a boarder, and it is thought that he struck his head against a defective gas jet in his room, and in this manner the gas was turned on. Not rising at the usual hour in the morning, his daughter knocked at the door several times, and receiving no answer, entered the room, where she discovered her father and mother in an unconscious condition. Mrs. Green was hanging over the bed, as though she had made an effort to get up, but failed. Dr. George H. ## NEW-YORK CITY.

The Congregational Clerical Union will meet at the Bible House to-day at 11 o'clock, and be addressed by the Rev. Hugh H. McCauley, of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Newark.
The annual entertainment of the Forsyth Street Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday-school will be held at the church this evening.
Many thousands of people paid their respects to Johanna, the big gorilla, at the Central Park Menagerie yesterday. There was a constant stream through the Arsenal, where she was "at home." Though exceedingly popular, Johanna received few compliments, for she is the personification of unbecomeliness.

George Wilson and George Williams, of Orange, N. J., and Harold White, of No. 26 White One-hundred-and-thirty-third-st., this city, the three Cornell students who were arrested late Saturday night for creating a disturbance in Worth's Museum, were arraigned before Justice Hogan in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning, and after a severe lecture were discharged.

The lateness to which lights are kept burning in street-cars, restaurants, kitchens and early opening stores is a constant reminder that the nights are steadily growing longer. They are to be seen now until well on toward 7 o'clock in the morning.

Travellers who have to wait for bridge cars in the early morning hours nowadays are beginning to wonder how soon the powers that be will put the usual waiting-cars on the tracks in the stations.

One of the minor sights which always attract attention in this city is afforded by a pretty young woman who is a regular morning patron of a Sixth-ave. bootblack. She sits in the chair and has her russet shoes polished with no more concern than a man would show, but is looked at twice by almost every man that passes the place.
A British bark started from this port for Hongkong yesterday, being bound to sea by a tugboat. After setting off the tug was found to be too light for her long voyage, and the tug picked her up again and brought her to the Upper Bay, where more ballast will be put on board. She will then resume her voyage. The bark was the Griffl, commanded by Captain Billett.

One of the warnings that winter is almost here is the sleet displayed in street-cars informing passengers that "The conductor must not allow the front door to remain open during cold weather."

The fumes of charcoal and the enticing odor of roasted chestnuts, alternating with great bunches of chrysanthemums held in grimy fists, have taken the places on city carriages recently occupied by cartloads of California pears and plums.

Prison Sunday was observed yesterday. It is so designated by the Prison Association of New-York, a society formed to assist the prisoners of the jails of New-York and Brooklyn, and especially for those who have just finished their terms of imprisonment. Many pastors in New-York and Brooklyn offered prayer at yesterday morning's services, and also at their congregations for contributions of money and for gifts of clothing and books.

DR. CROWELL CANNOT LIVE.

A WELL-KNOWN WRITER ON SPIRITUALISM CRITICALLY ILL AT HIS HOME IN THIS CITY.

Dr. Eugene Crowell, well known as a writer on Spiritualism, is critically ill at his apartments in the Hoffman Arms, Madison-ave., and Fifth-ave. He was weak yesterday afternoon, and his son, Charles E. Crowell, said that his father took no nourishment of any kind and that it was doubtful if he lived till morning.

Dr. Crowell has been years one of the leading exponents of Spiritualism, and his work entitled "The Identity of Primitive Christianity with Modern Spiritualism" received wide notice when it was published a few years ago. His later writings have been with an apparent aim to harmonize the miracles of the Bible with Spiritualism. His work on "The Identity of Primitive Christianity with Modern Spiritualism" has been translated into French.

Dr. Crowell is seventy-eight years old. He was born at White Plains in this State. His father was Sir Crowell, a Methodist circuit rider, who finally came to New-York and helped to found the Forsyth Street Methodist Church, which was built during his pastorate. Dr. Crowell organized and became president of the Edison Illuminating Company, of Brooklyn, and was until about four years ago president of the Edison General Company, of this city. When gold was discovered in California, Dr. Crowell was the first to go there, and grew rich in the drug trade in San Francisco. He was nominated for Mayor by the dominant party in San Francisco, but lost the election. He came to this city many years ago with his fortune, and made successful investments. Charles E. Crowell, a lawyer, Frank Crowell, whose home is in Minnesota, and Mrs. John H. Crowell, of New-York, are the children who survive him.

SMALLPOX ON THE LUCANIA.

TWO STEWARDS AT NORTH BROTHER ISLAND, AND OTHER UNDER OBSERVATION ON THE SHIP.

When the steamship Lucania arrived here Friday night two of the deck stewards were sick with smallpox. They were taken to the hospital, and are now at North Brother Island.

As soon as the stewards showed signs of the disease they were isolated in the ship's hospital, and it is not thought that any of the other stewards have contracted the disease. Nevertheless, they are all now under observation on board the steamer. The only thing which makes the case look bad is the evident intent of the quarantine authorities to keep the matter quiet. Dr. Jenkins is now in Europe, and his subordinate, Dr. Talmadge, resigns in his stead at the Narrows. The doctor has exaggerated by his profound secrecy the importance of the two cases of smallpox on board the Lucania. When the steamer arrived here she had about 600 passengers on board, who were anxious to land that night. Dr. Talmadge doubtless took in all the circumstances of the case before he allowed the ship to pass. Had the Lucania not been a record-breaker and Dr. Talmadge not been of a mind which is capable of being convinced, she would undoubtedly have remained at quarantine for inspection and isolation.

As it was, the Lucania came up to the city, the passengers were taken to the city, and Dr. Talmadge was satisfied, and so was every one else, who had dealings with the big steamer except the two unfortunate deck stewards, who are now lying sick with smallpox on North Brother Island.

The two stewards began to show signs of the disease on Saturday night. They were taken to the ship's hospital, and are now at North Brother Island. The mystery which Dr. Talmadge has thrown around the case has been the means of exciting a great deal of interest. So far none of the other stewards who are now confined on board the ship show indications of smallpox, and the big steamer will probably sail from here with a clean bill of health.
